A Corner on Ice.

Since the warm weather has come, to stay, everybody has felt the necessity of having ice in their. No one seemed to appreciate this more than a party of small boys, who, having discovered a deposit in City Creek, belonging to a citizen of Salt Lake, fell into the very convenient, but not always safe, habit of helping themselves to it. It soon became evident to the owner that some person or persons besides himself were enjoying his ice. After the horrible suspicion had once forced itself upon his mind, he was not long in maturing plans, which resulted in the discovery and capture of the aforesaid small boys. The youngsters were badly frightened when they were told that they must appear before the owner. They allowed their fancies to run wild and suggest all sorts of horrible punishments for their offense; but they escaped with only a severe reprimand.

School Elections.

SALT LAKE CITY, June 20, 1883.

Editors Herald:

Being interested in the coming school election for trustees on the second Monday of next month, I read and re-read the letter of Secretary Thomas in answer to enquiries by Supt. Nuttall, and am compelled to ask for some further information, which if you can furnish, will, I am sure, be of general benefit.

The reply of the secretary says: "I am directed by the Commission to say that as there are no election officers under the school law; and there is one point that stumps me. The school law provides for the holding of an election to elect one school trustee, and states how the election shall be governed and conducted. Are not the trustees of the district the election officers at that meeting and empowered to conduct the election, and are not the judges of that election officers; and is not the trustee elected then and there by the ballots of the voters of that district an elected officer?"

Again, the reply says: "Inasmuch as a registry list has been prepared under their direction as the basis of school meetings they are of the opinion that no further action on their part is necessary." If the registry list has been prepared was it not under the regulations growing out of the Edmunds bill, and are not the Commission the "they" referred to; and where are the prepared lists to be obtained for the basis of school meetings? If the Commission are of the opinion that no further action on their part is necessary, what action have they taken that is to govern the school meetings?

Let us have the thing rightly understood and then we may move right. At present the reply is ambiguous to me, and I confess to being in a fog. Yours truly,

A TRUSTEE.
